To a Safe & Sane New Year

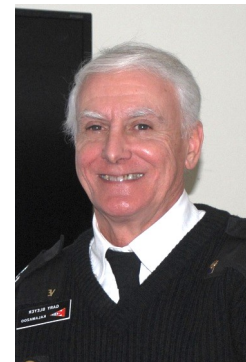

Kalamazoo Sail & Power Squadron

a unit of the United States Power Squadrons®

January brings a new year and the hope for a better year than 2016. Many people I know had a difficult time in 2016, either due to health issues or loss of a loved one. Our squadron lost two members, P/C Bob Boyce, AP who had just earned his USPS 50 year certificate in 2015 and Ross Griffith, SN who had just completed 25 years of membership.

One member had a boat fire after having a professional engine overhaul. Thankfully, no one was hurt, the damage was minor, but expensive. One member started last year with a broken hip, another now has a titanium rod in her femur, another had a heart attack and still others with illnesses and set backs.

KSPS Commander Gary W. Bleyer

In spite of all of this, we still have hope that 2017 will be better. Our annual meeting and Change of Watch (COW) will be on Tuesday 10 January 2017.

Our slate of candidates is the same as last year, with the only change being the addition of Ken Blad to the Executive Committee, to replace John Anderson, who has moved to Ohio.

We have vacancies in our Administrative and Executive Officer positions. We are still accepting nominations for elected bridge and committee positions.

Our Brains and Boating by Detroit Lt/C Margaret Schnelder, JN

We've heard plenty about the dangers of distracted driving - disastrous results have occurred while people were driving and texting or talking on the phone. Well, it should come as no surprise that distracted boating is no less dangerous.

After all, some of us are piloting a vessel at high speed, and some of us are operating on an angle with a big sail blocking much of our view. None of us have the luxury of having the other vessels in traffic lanes - other boats can appear from any direction, and it only takes a short period of inattention to find ourselves in a dangerous situation.

Many of you will say, "I don't use my phone out on the water, this doesn't apply to me". We as boaters, however, have lots of other shiny toys to distract us. We have instruments for depth, speed, and wind, GPS/chart plotter, radar, radio, AIS, autopilot, and engine gauges. It is deceptively easy to get so caught up in looking at all the screens, dials, and indicators that you forget to actually look where you are going.

While you are busy punching buttons on the chart plotter to try and figure out how to create a new route, it is easy to miss the small fishing boat that is drifting into your path.

While you are fussing with the autopilot trying to remember how to make it steer by the wind, it is easy to miss the other sailboat that has tacked, and is now barreling toward you on a starboard tack..

All of these whiz bang gadgets give us access to a remarkable amount of information that can make us safer, and make boating easier, but only if we know how to use them properly. They can free us to pay more attention to what's going on around us, or they can suck us in and cause us to lose track of the outside world.

So, take the time to read the manual at home, play with your toys while at the dock, and take a seminar to learn how to make the best use of your gadgets - in other words, educate yourself! And if you find that there is some new toy that you cannot resist playing with - that is taking your eyes off the water - post a lookout, or better yet, put someone else in charge altogether. As they used to say in Hill Street Blues, "Hey, let's be careful out there".
